Alexandria Gazette

SATURDAY EVENING, JULY 10, 1880.

A Grand Old Poem. Who shall judge a man from manners? Who shall know him by his dress? l'aupers may be fit for princes, l'ricces fit for something less; Crumpled shirt and dirty jacket May beelothe the golden ora Of the deepest thought and feeling -Satin vests could do no more.

There are strings of crystal nectar Ever welling out of stone; There are purple buds and golden, Hidden, crushed, and overgrown; G al, who counts by souls, not dresses, Loves and prospers you and me, While He values thrones the highest But is nebbles in the sea.

Man, upraised above his fellows, Olt forgets his fellows then; Masters, rulers, lords, remember That your meanest hinds ere men; Men by honor, men by feeling,

Men by thought, and men by fame, Claiming equal rights to sunshine la a man's conobling name. There are foam embroidered ce aps. There are little wood clad rills; There are feeble, iceh high saplings,

There are cedars on the hills. God, who counts by souls, not stations. Loves and prospers you and me. For to Him all famed distinctions Are as pebbles in the sea.

Toiling hands alone are builders O a painn's wea'th or fame; Titled laziness is pensioned Fed and fattened on the same ; By the sweat of other's foreheads L'ving only to rejoice.

While the poor man's outraged freedom Vain'y lifteth up its voice.

Trath and justice are eteroal, Born with lovliness and light; Se get wrongs shall never prosper While there is a sunny right: God, whose world heard voice is singing

Boundless love to you and me. Sinks oppression, with its titles, As the pebbles in the sea.
